

Kira-Destiny Prince

Mediation Experience

With seventeen years as a business owner and corporate partner in conflict resolution, Kira-Destiny's advisory approach to mediation is trust-inspired, transparent and structured. Where possible, she aims to reconcile fractured relationships or build new ones. Clients describe her approach as empathetic, discerning, trustworthy and patient in understanding disputing parties' positions without prejudice.

"Kira-Destiny's mediation style allowed me to see how one problem applies to other areas in my work and personal life. She showed me how healthy morale is impactful on everyone."

"Kira, you were delightful and professional at all times. Very open to our concerns and always lending a listening ear. You never undermined anyone but elevated our morale."

"I found you to be very sincere and genuine in accomplishing a workable solution, which you did. Thank you."

Professional Experience

Kira-Destiny trained in arbitration with Masons Solicitors, London, after graduating from Kent University with a high honours law degree. Philosophy and psychoanalysis were amongst her core subjects. Post law practice, she advised on cross-border trade issues within the EU as the commercial negotiator on global summits produced by EuroForum Plc.

In her tenure as regional director for CEFTA (Central and Eastern Europe Free Trade Agreement) member zones, she mediated civil/commercial disputes, which she states sharpened her diplomatic skills. After a decade leading her Swiss-based company in mediation, Kira-Destiny earned the reputation of “professional therapists” for closing complex global mobility disputes for fortune 100- 500 companies.

Kira-Destiny’s US office in Delaware has delivered dispute resolution and training sessions to government agencies. A City Commissioner describes her courses as “effective in getting to the root cause of issues that plagued the Department for years.”

Other Information

Kira-Destiny has written a true story memoir genre based on a family history of resolving disputes. Awaiting publication, she authenticates how seeking the underlying causes of conflicts became her signature approach to achieving reconciliations. A short story of her writings on a similar topic won third place in the life writing genre at the UK annual writers conference competition in 2003.

Her philanthropic activities include volunteering in school careers and peer to peer mentoring programs for teenagers and young adults. Her program interests focuses on disadvantaged and orphaned children in the education, health and social welfare sectors.

Kira-Destiny is profiled in magazines and books for her contributions to the economic growth of Lake Geneva, Switzerland and Delaware State, USA.
<https://www.choosmediation-i.com/blog>.

Located in Oxford and London, she mediates and trains worldwide through her UK based firm, Choose Mediation International Ltd.